PRESS RELEASE

I-SICS – INTERNATIONAL SOCIAL INNOVATION COMPETITION FOR STUDENTS AND ADULT LEARNERS

The I-SICS project aims to raise the awareness of university students to the most important problems of their regions, and urge them to think in a socially responsible way, so that they can become effective and committed activists of their homelands.

We intend to achieve the goals of the projects through an International Social Innovation Competition. The partners organize regional competitions in their respective countries and the winners of these contests meet in August 2016 to participate in an international entrepreneurship competition.

The aim of the competition is to draw attention to the most important social problems, gather ideas relating to social innovation which can be solutions of the problems. We are waiting for ideas which can be useful for the whole society. Their aim is not getting profit for the individuals, enterprises and investors.

University/college students or adult learners above 18 can apply for the competition individually or in team maximum number of 3.

Deadline: 29 February, 2016

The attendance at the competition is a good opportunity for competitors because they broaden their knowledge, improve their skills, get new experience, make contacts, try themselves in an international environment, improve their language knowledge, with their idea make the world better and help others.

Every participant will attend the Social Enterprising Europe (SEE) Project training where attendants will acquire the most important experiences in order to deal with social business planning.

Every participant will work together with a mentor who will facilitate the planning process and will prepare competitors for the contest.

The 3 best ideas/projects on regional level will compete at the international competition with the other representatives of the regional competitions.

The evaluation of the full project plans will be based on the presentation of the projects and on the Social Enterprising Europe (SEE) Project Learning Program.
